Empowered by the Holy Spirit

By WILLIAM L. TRIMYER
EMPOWERED BY THE SPIRIT
Lesson for March 13, 1983
Bible Study Passages: Acts 2:1-4, 12-18, 37-38

Introduction

"Not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit," says the Lord of hosts. (Zech. 4:6)

The above Old Testament saying pretty well sums up the ways of God. It is unfortunate, however, that we have often perceived God to lead by power and might. While God has displayed himself in times past with many mighty acts, we normally witness his presence in the silent moving of his spirit.

We sometimes have need to seek some kind of empowerment in order to face certain crises in life. There are occasions when we bargain for a power contrary from the power of God's ever-present Spirit. God does empower us, but not in the way we are accustomed to or in ways we desire.

We may wish for physical or financial power to wage our battles; we may long for political or social power to sway the pendulum our way. But God leads by the power of his Spirit, not by military, political, or social power. This week's lesson takes a look at how the early church received its power to do its mission.

The Coming of the Spirit [Acts 2:1-4]

Whatever happened on the day of Pentecost we may be sure that the disciples experienced a profound presence of the divine. It is notable that the divine presence manifested itself in signs and symbols recognizable to the disciples. In the Old Testament God often revealed himself through signs and symbols that were easily comprehended (Ex: "Pillar of Cloud").

Pentecost is the day on which the church was given birth. At Pentecost the Holy Spirit came in such a way that it was understood by all. The people were so empowered that they each spoke in native tongues for all to understand.

Speaking "with other tongues" is not the same phenomenon as Paul describes in 1 Corinthians 14.

Peter's Pentecost Sermon [Acts 2:12-18]

The natural assumption of some who witnessed the events at Pentecost was that the disciples had enjoyed one too many goblets of wine. In other words, they thought they were drunk. It is normal to express skepticism towards that which we do not understand or embrace.

Peter quickly took a hardline defense of the events of Pentecost. His denial of Jesus at the trial of Jesus is no longer evident, for he boldly proclaims the power of God's Holy Spirit.

Peter observed that the disciples could not be drunk since it was early in the morning. Peter then begins to quote from the Old Testament prophet Joel who describes the outpouring of God's Spirit upon his people.

Response to Peter's Sermon [Acts 2:37-38]

The sermon that Peter preached did not fall upon all deaf ears or hardened hearts. Numerous ones in the crowd of onlookers responded with an enthusiastic, "What shall we do?"

The Gospel of Christ stands alone on its own authority to bring people into the kingdom of God. We do not need to resort to trickery and manipulation to introduce people to Christ. Yet, so often we witness the church or television evangelist use means that are ethically and morally questionable.

Jesus certainly never resorted to gimmicks to encourage people to follow him. Jesus never called people under false pretenses. He was a "straight shooter" who simply made his cause known and then left it up to the individual to respond.

The church would do well to relax its dependence upon gimmicks and rely more on the authority of the Gospel.

ON TUESDAY, MARCH 1, 175 students in grades 3-6 at Appomattox Elementary School participated in the Virginia Mathematics League Contest. The rigorous test of 40 problems is based on the sixth grade curriculum. Students are allowed 30 minutes in order to complete the examination. The five highest scorers are pictured above. Dustin Wilhoit, Jason Ford, Laura Bradley, Dean Nash, and Cheryl Johnson. AES congratulates these students on exhibiting their mathematical prowess. The five scores are being sent to the League's headquarters for regional recognitions.

Happiness is 4-H

By FRANK H. SWEET
Extension Agent

A series of training sessions for adults and teen 4-H'ers who are interested in judging 4-H presentations, Share-the-Fun and Public Speaking will be held next week. These programs are being in four locations throughout the East Central Extension District. Training sessions will be held on Monday, March 14, in Farmville; Tuesday, March 15, in South Hill; Wednesday, March 16 in Rustburg and Thursday, March 17 in Charlottesville. The purpose of these training meetings will be to develop consistency when individuals are asked to judge at area and district 4-H programs; Individuals interested in attending the training sessions in our area (Farmville and Rustburg) may call the Extension Office (352-8244) for details.

The Appomattox 4-H Presentation program will be Saturday morning, March 26, beginning at 9:30 a.m. at Appomattox Elementary School. 4-H'ers are working on ideas for presentations (demonstrations - illustrated talks) as they prepare for this important program. Winners in the Junior age group (9-11) and in the Intermediate age group (12-13) will have the opportunity to represent Appomattox in an Area Contest in Rustburg on April 16.

The spring meeting of the East Central District 4-H Volunteer Leaders Association will be held Saturday morning, March 19, beginning at 9:30 a.m. at the District Extension Office in Appomattox. A covered dish luncheon will be included in the meeting which will end about 2:30 p.m.

Appomattox 4-H'ers will attend Holiday Lake 4-H Camp during the week of July 4-8. The cost of camp will be $48.00, with a discount for more than one child from the same family. Volunteers are needed to assist with the camping program. Details about this year's 4-H camp will be available to the 4-H'ers in April.

Dedication planned

There will be a special dedication service during the morning worship service on March 13 at Red Oak Baptist Church for the new piano that was donated to the church by the Lisa Rogers Memorial Fund in memory of Lisa.

The Lisa Rogers Memorial Fund was established to purchase a new piano in memory of Lisa Rogers, because of her interest in music and especially the music of Red Oak Church, where she was an active member.

The worship service begins at 10:55 and the public is invited to attend this special service.

The Rev. Jim Vaught is pastor of the church.

Letters

Bloodmobile

Editor:

A total of 109 people registered to give blood at the Feb. 28 Bloodmobile, with 7 deferrals making a total collected of 102 units. That was close, but we did not make our goal of 110.

We had nine first-time donors: Janice M. Campbell and Teresa Hamlett, both students at ACHS; Harry F. Christie, Brenda P. Morris, Tammy L. Bates, Janet H. Ewers, Robert H. Martin, Dow E. Mongold, and John A. Foresman. We do hope each of them will be repeat donors in the future.

Donors who are repeats and received pins are: Kenneth P. Davis, Teri L. Cestaro, Donna K. Miller and Ann R. Fletcher, all one gallon donors; Raymond H. Turner and Gregg C. Martin, 2 gallon donors; Peyton G. Cumbie, Jr. was our largest donor and received his 3 gallon pin. Thanks to each of them and to all our donors.

The Woman's Club was our hostess for this visit. The homemade cookies and sandwiches were most appreciated. Others who donated to the canteen were: Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co., Lee-Grant Motel, Food World and Wilburs.

A very special thanks to the Times-Virginian and WTFX for publicity. We had a total of 55 volunteers for this visit, a very special thanks to each of you. It takes many working together to make a bloodmobile visit possible. I was a little disappointed in our turnout for February, as it had been so good for the past two years but thanks to YOU we made a good showing despite the slow period from 1 to 3 p.m. See you on our next visit? Make plans now for Tuesday, April 26, at Liberty Baptist Church.

Sincerely,
Alice C. Martin

ASK benefit

Dear Editor:

The F.B.L.A. Chapter at Appomattox County High School recently sponsored a radio-a-thon for ASK, Association for the Study of Childhood Cancer. The benefit went well.

The D.J.'s from WLVA set up in the cafeteria on February 28 for their 4-hour broadcast. To Matt, Gary and Greg - "Thanks guys!" We would also like to thank Chicken Palace, Pizza Hut, and Lombardi's as well as local radio stations WTTX and WFLO and The Times Virginian and Farmville Herald.

Because of the support of our community, the Appomattox Chapter Future Business Leaders of America will be able to send ASK a check for $483. All funds raised by the association are made available for projects designed to provide emotional support to the children stricken with cancer and their families. No donated funds are used for administrative and operating costs unless specifically designated for that purpose. Time and organizational planning are supplied by ASK members without compensation.

We thank everyone that helped us in the radio-a-thon and everyone who donated a pledge.

Sincerely,
Cindy Covington

Good show

Dear Editor:

It was my privilege to attend the Sacred Concert presented by the ACHS Chorale and Chorus, under the direction of Steve Lawrence.

Both groups did a superb job and I thoroughly enjoyed the program.

The professionalism exhibited by the Chorale made this a group Appomattox can be proud of.

Mr. Lawrence is doing a terrific job in our school system and we are very fortunate to have him here.

I am only amazed that Memorial United Methodist was not packed Sunday afternoon to enjoy this quality program.

Sincerely,
Virginia Bondurant

with several different groups while he was in the Air Force in the late 1960s. Inge performed with the New Hope Singers before he joined Dutchman's Branch.

Harvey, who the rest of the band members refer to as the "grandaddy of the bunch," has been playing the bass for "eight or ten years just for fun." He notes that he has performed with various church groups from time to time.

"We don't get too serious when we play," he says. "We do it mostly to relax." Harvey, who has been in the construciton business for 32 years, notes that the practice sessions can become hard work. "After four or five hours of picking, you start to get blisters on your hand, and you know you've been practicing," he notes.

The group practices once or twice each week, usually at Shupe's house. "A lot of times, friends will come in and practice with us, just for the enjoyment of the music," Harvey says.

"That's what it's all about," he concludes. "We just get together to have fun, and relax a little."
